The Ga XANES spectra Ga next-nearest-neighbor interatomic distances listed in table for sample AM406 - 145 ( fig. 11B ) is most similar to that of 5, suggest that Ga is hosted predominantly by sulfate miner-Ga ( SO ), whereas the spectra for the other three samples als, where it is octahedrally coordinated by six oxygen atoms. 2 4 3 differ considerably ( table 5 ). Octahedral Ga-O distances are approximately 0. 6 longer EXAFS spectra and derivative Fourier transforms ( FTs ) of than tetrahedral Ga-O distances, giving rise to the bifurcated model materials and Ga-enriched samples from the McDermitt Ga-O FT peaks in the Ga O spectra.
