Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Adonais, Vol. 1: An Elegy on the Death of John Keats, Author of Endymion, Hyperion, Etc It is my intention to subjoin to the London edition of this poem, a criticism upon the claims of its lamented object to be classed among the writers of the highest genius who have adorned our age. My known repugnance to the narrow principles of taste on which several of his earlier compositions were modelled, prove, at least that I am an impartial judge. I consider the fragment of Hyperion, as second to nothing that was ever produced by a writer of the same years. John Keats, died at Rome of a consumption, in his twenty-fourth year, on the - of - 1821; and was buried in the romantic and lonely cemetery of the protestants in that city, under the pyramid which is the tomb of Cestius, and the massy walls and towers, now mouldering and desolate, which formed the circuit of ancient Rome.
