The strip of gold should be extended a little beyond both sides of the backing or over the incisive edge of the porcelain to retain it in position in the investment. Solid Porcelain Dummies with Gold Base.--In some cases of bridge-work on the lower jaw, protection of the incising edges and occluding surfaces of dummies with gold renders them noticeable to an extent which is very objectionable to many patients. This can be remedied in bicuspid by forming the occluding surface and the exposed portion of the labial face of the porcelain in the following manner: Select a suitable sized ordinary bicuspid designed for vulcanite, and level out the headed portion of the pins by squeezing with pliers. Cut a strip of pure gold about No. 34 gauge, of a...
