INTRODUCTION FOR the past year or two, numerous requests have come to the editor of The Inland Printer and to the writer for a simple method of keeping books for the country publishers and the small job-printer. An awakening has taken place in the printing industry, due to agitation along cost-finding and price-making lines, and showings made by surveys, all of which, whether correct or not, has had a tendency to make the printer sit up and take notice, and to feel that perhaps after all something was the matter with the printing business. Nearly all printers and publishers have some method of keeping track of their accounts, but few, if any, can tell at the end of the month, and be able to prove their figures, whether they have made any money. Now, the writer is not an accountant, nor does he claim to be a bookkeeper--in fact, like all good printers, he hates bookkeeping. But he realizes that some record must be kept which will show a printer where he is at. After investigating some hundreds of systems, of very simple and very complex natures, he has chosen as one example, a printer whom he shall call John Smith, who took over an old plant and had his friend the cashier of the bank help him put it on a paying basis. This story of John Smith is mostly true, although it was not entirely the bookkeeping system that made him...
